NEW ASYLUM MANAGER

HONOLULU MAILS WILL BE FUMIGATED ON MAINLAND

Board of Health Considers Nuisances and Figures on How to Reduce General Expenses.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Health yesterday afternoon the principal topics of discussion were the suppression of nuisances and the scaling of the salary roll to see whose wages could best be cut to make the legislative appropriation go around. The appropriations asked for the Mokulua settlement amounted to $62,400. The Legislature granted $60,720, making it necessary to cut out about $90 per month to keep within the lines. The list of officers was read from superintendent down to keeper of the key to the taro patch gate, but none of them seemed to be overpaid, so the salaries were left as in the past. A saving will be made somehow somewhere later on.

The management of the Insane Asylum was settled after considerable talk by the election of Dr. R. M. Maister, resident medical superintendent. He will draw a salary of $165 per month. Mr. Kipley, the present superintendent will be retained at a salary of $110 per month, as assistant. This arrangement is made possible by dropping one guard and the matron and the caretaker of the taro patch. The new superintendent has been in Honolulu but a few months. He graduated from Rush Medical College in 1894 and has had extensive hospital experience at Omaha. He has the highest recommendations both from people here and on the mainland. He will assume his new duties August 1.

W. H. Thurum, Mrs. Grau and Mrs. Phillips were at the meeting to register a decisive kick against the unsanitary condition of the Hawaiian Soda Water factory located on Emma street. Sanitary Officer Tracy reported that most of the things complained of were being remedied today.

Bids for furnishing taro to the settlement from August 1, to December 31, 1901, were sent in by Solomon Kaalihi-kawa of Kalawa. No action was taken.

The members of the Board were inclined to believe the following letter from the Wilder Steamship Company, was inspired by the fact that the Legislature voted money for a Board of Health boat. The letter reads:

It is the unvarnished rule of this company to charge cash for passage. An exception has been made in favor of the government as payment of passage orders have always been met promptly heretofore. Now that some are paid by warrants we cannot accept these orders hereafter and all fares will be cash excepting on letters from Honolulu to the settlement.

We are paying out large amounts to the government for wharfage, etc., and if passage orders will be accepted by the government in lieu of cash we are quite willing to continue to accept them as heretofore.

WILDER STEAMSHIP CO.

Sanitary Officer Tracy reported on the drainage system in use at the Victoria Hospital. The Board ordered that the hospital connect with the sewer at once.

A letter from Dr. S. E. Cofer, the quarantine officer, informed the Board that the request that all mails directed to Honolulu be disinfected in the Marine Hospital Bureau. On motion of Attorney General Dole, Dr. Cofer was tendered a vote of thanks for his assistance in this, and his valued cooperation in all quarantine matters.

The application of two members of the Church of Latter Day Saints to visit the settlement was refused.

India's Population Fast Reducing From the Plague

A special cable to the New York Sun from London says:

Letters written from Simla recently show that matters have been even worse than former census figures indicated, and that, though the famine is now nearly at an end, the plague is almost as bad as ever.

The following passages reveal a state of affairs which surprises persons who have thought for some time that all was well again.

The victory toward the end of last year, estimated that the total mortality through the famine of 1899-1900 would amount to about 750,000. It is almost certain that this computation will prove far too low. Many experts are of the opinion that at least double that number died, directly or indirectly. The census figures for Marwar alone are significant enough. Here we find a decrease of 600,000 souls. It is not unlikely that the northern portions of Bombay may show a decrease of a round million, most of which must be directly due to the terribly severe famine of last year. In the central provinces, the majority of the districts so far show heavy decreases. Thus Jabalpur district is 67,000 to the bad, Narsingpur 53,000, Seoni 44,000, and so on.

During the last ten years the central provinces have had at least five years of either acute scarcity or downright famine, and a decrease in the rural populations was, therefore, to some extent inevitable. In the northwest provinces, which have been more favored in the matter of good seasons, things are somewhat better; but even there the tendency is, on the whole, toward a decrease. Mirzapur district shows a decrease of 75,000, Ghazipur one of 110,000, Benares 85,000, Benares City 16,000 and so on. The important town and provincial capital of Allahabad shows an increase of only 336 persons in ten years. Elsewhere in India we find Bangalore, one of the principal cantonments in the south, exhibiting a decrease of no less than 23 per cent as compared with 1891. In this case plague is held to account for the deficiency.

Perhaps at no time since its first appearance in Bombay, in the autumn of 1896, has the plague been more serious in India than at the present moment. If one hears less about it this is simply because everybody has got so used to its continued presence, which is taken very much as a matter of course. In Bombay city the people have grown absolutely callous. There is no longer a scare, no longer a precipitate flight to the country districts. The disease has established its right to a permanent residence in the Western capital, and this right has been tacitly conceded by the inhabitants. Nothing could be more marked than the positive indifference of the natives of Bombay to the ravages of the pestilence. The lower orders, profiting by the policy of laissez faire, which the authorities, for political motives, felt compelled to adopt last year, have ceased either to take the most elementary precautions themselves or to allow other people to do this for them. The more enlightened native citizens not only make no attempt to combat the ignorant prejudice and bigoted opinions of their humbler fellows, but positively encourage them in their passive resistance to the simplest sanitary laws.

Yet in Poona cantonment, not much more than a hundred miles away, excellent results have been obtained by adopting precautions. Last year, when another outbreak seemed imminent, the military authorities did what they could to encourage the people to submit to inoculation. In a few months upward of 14,000 persons, out of a population of some 35,000, had undergone the operation. The results were almost immediately apparent, and triumphantly vindicated the merits of the plague prophylactic. In Poona city, which adjoins the cantonment, plague was raging furiously. There the accepted policy of the day, a policy forced on Lord Curzon by the blind fanaticism of the people of India, held full sway. In a short time there were upward of 5,000 plague cases, with 4,311 deaths out of a population of not much more than 100,000. The cantonment, as stated, adjoins the city. Communication between the two is as incessant as between Fleet street and the Strand; yet, thanks to the precautions adopted by Gen. Burnett and the military authorities, the cases in the cantonment only numbered 219, with 143 deaths, out of a population of upward of 30,000. The native soldiers, who were almost entirely in the grip of the pestilence, the mortality in these places has for weeks past been of an alarming character. The plague is spreading. From Patna it has crossed the Ganges into the planting districts of Behar. Thence it has gone to Ballia, a somewhat fanatical place in the northwest provinces. From Ballia the plague has lately spread to Benares. It could hardly have been taken a more fearful course. Benares is the sacred city of the Hindoos. Thither flock, from every part of India, hundreds of thousands of devotees, of both sexes and of every age, eager to worship at the sacred shrines and bathe in the holy Ganges. Thus from Benares infection is carried to every portion, however remote, of India. An outbreak of plague in such a center is, therefore, one of the most serious calamities which has so far occurred in the history of that pestilence in India. It is rendered more serious by the character of the population. All that is most bigoted, most fanatical, opposed to British rule and the spread of Western science and civilization is concentrated at Benares. There are to be found in hundreds the fakirs, jorgis, sanasis and other mendicants, and the priests, the majority of whom are the bitter enemies of our rule in India. There the flame of religious fervor burns at its brightest. To attempt in such a place to check the pestilence by ordinary and common-sense measures of sanitation would mean an immediate tumult and bloodshed. The disinfection of houses is regarded as wholesale defilement; the segregation of the sick as a possible preliminary to their murder.

Sir Anthony McDonnell, the Lieutenant-Governor, has just visited the place, and has spoken to the people on the necessity of adopting such precautions as the vacation of houses, disinfection and inoculation. After him there got up a retired Judge, an intelligent gentleman, well acquainted with the prejudices of the people. He declared that they would have neither house vacation nor inoculation, though the enlightened amongst them might perhaps allow disinfection. With prejudices such as these to contend with, it may be imagined how great are the difficulties of the local authorities in dealing with the plague.
